After victory, battle continues

Faith-based child placement agencies face ongoing challenges

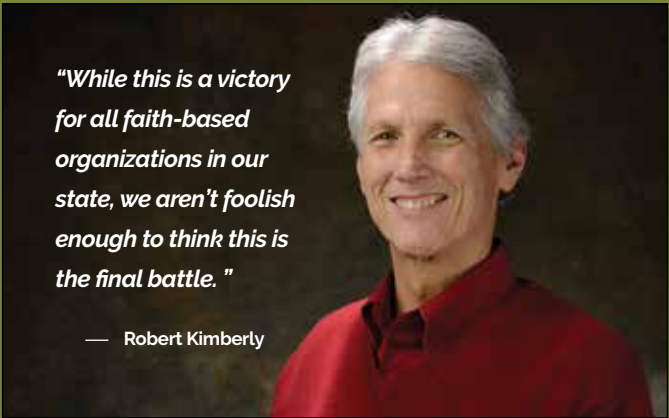

By Robert Kimberly
Executive Director

Sometimes in life, you have to take a stand.

This year, Southeastern Children's Home celebrates its 50th Anniversary. For 50 years, we've worked alongside the state of South Carolina to provide homes for children that have been abused or neglected. For 50 years, we have practiced The Great Commission by introducing young people to Godly principles. For 50 years, we've tried our best to be the hands and feet of Jesus.

Yet, times are changing. Recently, the South Carolina Department of Social Services threatened to revoke a faith-based agency's child-placing license if it did not end its practice of only licensing Christian foster parents. This agency, Miracle Hill Ministries, has been a close ally and friend of ours for many years. After the state of South Carolina made this decision, our board of trustees voted to support Miracle Hill in its battle with the government's decision. Lines were drawn. We started to prepare for a huge argument and possible litigation.

Thankfully, in March, the disagreement was temporarily resolved when Governor McMaster signed an executive order which protects faith-based agencies such as ours. The governor's order states that the State has "no compelling interest in limiting faith-based organizations' participation as CPAs [Child Placement Agencies]."

"While this is a victory for all faith-based organizations in our state, we aren't foolish enough to think this is the final battle."

— Robert Kimberly

While this is a victory for all faith-based organizations in our state, we aren't foolish enough to think this is the final battle. Unfortunately, faith-based agencies will likely continue to be scrutinized and subjected to ongoing disagreements.

Please continue to pray for our ministry as we seek to serve vulnerable young men and women in our state.

Also, please consider attending our 50th Anniversary Banquet on December 1st in Greer, SC. This is an event worth celebrating. Tickets can be purchased by visiting our website at sech.org. Come witness the lives that have been changed in our 50 years of service.

Thank you for standing with us during this tumultuous time.

Sincerely,

On the cover:

1 Houseparents

Have you considered devoting a period of your life to a ministry committed to helping troubled children? Look no further... Southeastern Children's Home is located in the upstate of South Carolina between Spartanburg and Greenville, at the base of the Blue Ridge Mountains. SECH has an immediate opening for houseparents to live in a cottage on the 50 acre campus and care for up to 6 adolescent children. Both husband and wife are employed by SECH. Competitive salaries, paid time off, medical insurance, 24 hour backup and support by case manager staff, housing, utilities, food allowance, gas allowance, and van for work use are provided. This area offers top-notch public schools with competitive sports teams, an award winning marching band, orchestra, and other fine arts selections. The agency enjoys a good relationship with the school system. In addition, the agency provides 50% of the family membership rate to the local YMCA, which allows for indoor exercise and swimming year round. Seeking ministry minded Christian couples with strong marriages and team spirits. To learn more about Southeastern, go to sech.org.

2 Director of Development

JOB DESCRIPTION: The Director of Development is responsible for planning, implementing, and administering a comprehensive fund development program for Southeastern Children's Home (SECH). The Director of Development is also personally active in face-to-face cultivation and engagement of prospects and donors. The Director of Development will report to the Executive Director – or whom the Executive Director may specify – any and all concerns related to development. The Director of Development will maintain a professional and ethical relationship with all entities contacted on behalf of SECH. Seeking full-time ministry minded Christian with a team spirit.

QUALIFICATIONS: Person of integrity and enthusiasm; BS or BA degree or 3-5 years of experience in fund development; Certified Fundraising Professional or willing to earn certification; Commitment to spiritually-based mission of SECH; Desire to grow professionally and personally; Basic computer skills in word processing, spreadsheets, and database; Working knowledge of donor tracking software; Demonstrates commitment and competency in web-based communications, including social networking; Demonstrates commitment and competency in web-based prospect research; Basic understanding of bookkeeping principles and marketing concepts; No criminal record and has never been substantiated as the perpetrator in an abuse or neglect case; Must hold a valid driver's license and should have auto insurance with limits as suggested by SECH policy.

3 Director of Counseling Services

JOB DESCRIPTION: The Director's basic general function is to oversee the daily operation of the Southeastern Children's Home Counseling Center. This may include staffing, budgeting, maintaining of files and licenses, training, obtaining contracts, supervision of other counselors, and counseling. Provide direct mental health services (including but not limited to) conducting assessments, individual/group/family counseling and crisis interventions to clients. The Director will report to the Executive Director – or whom the Executive Director may specify – any and all concerns related to the center.

QUALIFICATIONS: SC licensure as a Licensed Master Social Worker (LSMW), Licensed Independent Social Worker (LISW) or Licensed Professional Counselor (LPC) preferred with a minimum of 2 years' experience in counseling. Seeking full-time ministry minded Christian with a team spirit.

Mission accomplished: J'len reunited with mother ahead of schedule

Reuniting a family is one of the best experiences here at Southeastern Children's Home.

We're happy to announce that J'len, one of our residents, was reunited with his mother this month.

J'len was originally removed from his home because of some deep-rooted issues with one particular family member. After being removed from his home, J'len's poor behavior and emotional issues led him to being placed at Southeastern Children's Home.

"Initially, J'len was incredibly defiant," SECH Case Manager Matt Howland said. "He never took responsibility for his actions. Everything was always someone else's fault, and he allegedly couldn't help who he was. He would have violent outbursts at the home and in school."

Over time, J'len began to adapt and make small changes.

"J'len was great with our 3-yr old son, Zander," House-Mom Rebecca Caroon said. "Some of our boys have a hard time coping with Zander, but J'len was like a big brother. We all miss J'len, but Zander is really going to miss him."

One of our goals at Southeastern Children's Home is to reunite children with their families when the time is appropriate. In J'len's case, his mother moved out of a dangerous situation and was able to complete her court-ordered treatment plan.

Southeastern residents Noah, Brooklynn, J'len, Izzy, Erin, and Kylie enjoy a January snow day.

an early homecoming

Ultimately, the goal is to help the family so that the child never re-enters the court system.

"I really wasn't expecting to move back with my mother so soon," J'len said. "I'm excited, but I also kind of want to stay because I love this place and the people here. The staff and the other kids make this place really special. I'm definitely going to come back and visit. This is a great place to be."

Like J'len, we have mixed emotions. We're sad to see him leave, but we're excited for his future in a safe and happy home.
